Seval Oz Joins MicroVision Board of Directors, Director Bernee D. L. Strom Steps Down

REDMOND, Wash., March 02, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- MicroVision, Inc. (NASDAQ: MVIS), a leader in MEMS based solid state automotive lidar and micro-display technology for augmented reality, today announced that Seval Oz has been appointed to its board of directors and that Bernee D. L. Strom has stepped down as a Director.

Seval Oz is a recognized global business and marketing leader in mobility, autonomous vehicle technology and intelligent transportation systems. Oz was a Founder and CEO of Aurima, Inc, a multi-sensor awareness platform powered by AI deep learning for autonomous vehicles. She was previously CEO of Continental Intelligent Transportation Systems, a division of Continental AG Interiors Division. She has served as Head of Global Strategic Partnerships for Google[x]'s Self Driving Cars Program (Waymo) where she supported global business and marketing efforts for Google's self-driving technology commercial launch. In addition, she is an executive board advisor to automotive industry leaders and an investment advisor to several investment funds and holds 10 patents in vehicular technology software. Oz was the recipient of the Women in Technology Award for Courage and serves as an advisor to several boards including Pioneer Electronics, Moove.ai, HealthCorps®, a national health education program for high schools and Endeavor.Org, a global high-impact entrepreneurship organization based in NYC. Oz is a frequent speaker on women's leadership in technology and serves in an advisory capacity to multiple automotive industry leaders. Oz received her MBA from Wharton Business School and her BA from Wellesley/M.I.T. in economics and political science.

"We are fortunate to add Seval Oz to our board of directors and look forward to benefiting from her significant experience working with public companies and technology companies as well as having her management expertise gained from a long career in leadership roles," said Sumit Sharma, Chief Executive Officer of MicroVision.

"I am thrilled to join the MicroVision board of directors at this opportune time. I am excited to bring my expertise and experience in autonomous vehicle technology and mobility to the Company as it develops its automotive lidar technology and explores strategic alternatives," said Seval Oz, newly appointed Independent Director of MicroVision. "I look forward to working with Brian, Sumit, board members and the management team to help the Company maximize the value of its solid state automotive lidar and micro-display technology."

Concurrent with Seval Oz joining the board of directors, Director Bernee Strom decided to step down from the board.

"I have enjoyed my work with the board and management and feel I can confidently step down to continue work with my other boards and philanthropic activities," said Bernee Strom. "The Company is well positioned with two new board members with experience in automotive lidar, mobility and automotive OEM markets. I believe the Company is on strong footing and I am excited for MicroVision's future."

"Bernee has been a valuable member of our board and has been a significant contributor to the vision and strategy of the Company," stated Brian Turner, Chairman and Independent Director at MicroVision. "We want to thank Bernee for her hard work on the board; she will be missed."
